DITS OF THOUSANDS.

ONE MAN WAS KILLED

Mechanic for Millionaire, Racer Met Death And His Driver Will Probably Die From Injuries Sustained.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Indianapolis Speedway, May 30.—Dixon, mechanic for Arthur Griener, driving the Simplex car, was instantly killed on the thirteenth lap when both back tires of the machine blew up and the car over-turned.

Griener, himself, was probably fatally injured. Griener had gathered fame at the Crown Point and Elkhart races and was one of the four millionaires drivers entered in today's race who follow the game merely for sport.

The Race Starts.
Motor speedway, May 30.—Forty of the most powerful racing cars in the world driven by the greatest drivers in the game, dashed away to the start of the five hundred mile international sweepstakes at two today.

Excellent weather predicted, there is nothing to mar the greatest day of auto racing. More than ten thousand people lined from the speedway gate five hours before the big race began. Automobile parties and society from most every state in the Union were on hand. Hotels were jammed and many were forced to spend the night in their machines.

In addition to the betting which favored Drivers Harroun in a Marmon Wasp and "Wild Hob" Durman in his Milton Benz, pools were drawn on the number of drivers who would be killed in accidents.

Just before the race started, Durman, who broke the world's record yesterday, was crowned the "World's Speed King" and presented with a gold crown set with jewels valued at ten thousand dollars.

The track was then cleared and lined with five rows of eight cars each and a preliminary lap around the course taken. Time for the first twenty miles was fifteen minutes and six seconds.

WORK HORSES HAVE BIG PARADE TODAY

Milwaukee Scene of Demonstration Representing Almost Every Trade in the City.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, May 30.—A line of work horses, hundreds of teams, representing nearly every branch of industry in the city today formed a monster parade, the first of its kind in the history of Milwaukee.

BROKEN NECK DOES NOT KILL LABORER

Man Still Alive Despite the Injuries
He is Said to Have Sustained.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, May 30.—Henry Rouband, aged forty-nine, a laborer, was taken to the emergency hospital last night after physicians had said his neck was broken, was today reported alive with no prospects of death.

WORKING EVIDENCE UP FOR THE TRIAL

Dietz Attorneys Are Not Letting Anything Prevent Their Getting Ready for Hearings.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Pand du Lac, May 30.—Preparations of papers for an appeal in the Dietz case is a stupendous task. Over four thousand words must be transcribed from shorthand notes. The work is being rushed for the Dietz attorneys and will be in their hands soon. Clarence Dietz is slowly improving.

Tablets To Mark Historic Spot.

Port Clinton, O., May 30.—The membership of the historical and patriotic societies of Ottawa and neighboring counties, together with a number of distinguished guests from other parts of the State, participated in the exercises today to the dedication of tablets marking two of the most historic points in northern Ohio. One of the memorials is on the site of Fort Sandusky, the first fortification built by white men in Ohio, located on Sandusky bay, north of this place. The second memorial marks the northern end of the old French and Indian trail from Lake Erie to the Ohio river, known as the Sandusky and Seneca route, and later as Harrison's trail during the war of 1812.

In Session in Rochester.

Rochester, N. Y., May 30.—The eleventh annual convention of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers of the United States and Canada began in Rochester today and will continue in session until Friday. About two hundred delegates and visitors from points throughout the State are in attendance. The improvement of trade conditions is to form the principal subject of discussion.

URGED PROSECUTION OF PERSONS MAKING
TOBACCO MONOPOLY

Supreme Court Strongly Urges Criminal Prosecution of Individuals Creating Trust According to Lawyers.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Washington, May 30.—In its decision in the Tobacco Trust case the supreme court not only laid the basis for criminal prosecution for those individuals who created the monopoly, but in the strongest language urged the government to take the step, putting it up to the attorney general. This is the construction placed today upon phrases recurring constantly throughout the opinion of Justice White. Phrases in the opinion, as naming "the individual guilty," "a conscious wrong doing," and "parties to an unreasonable combine," in the view of lawyers here today, clearly makes it the duty of the government to proceed criminally against the individual defendants.

SUMMER SCHOOL FOR RELIGION PLANNED

American Ethical Union to Hold
Fourth Annual Three Weeks' Meeting at University of Wisconsin.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 30.—The American Ethical Union has completed arrangements for holding the fourth annual summer school of ethics here for three weeks, from June 25 to July 14, during the summer session of the University of Wisconsin.

The school will have a faculty of six, consisting of E. J. Gould, England, lecturer for the Moral Instruction League of Great Britain; Dr. James H. Leuba, professor of psychology and education at Bryn Mawr; Dr. Henry Newman, of the College of the City of New York; Dr. Frank Thilly, professor of philosophy at Cornell, and editor of the International Journal of Ethics; Mrs. Anna Garlin Spencer of the New York School of Philanthropy; and S. Burnes Weston, managing editor of the International Journal of Ethics.

The psychological study of the dynamics of conduct, great leaders of ethical thought, ethical advance in public affairs and moral teaching of children are among the subjects for lectures and conferences.

SUMMER SCHOOL OF ETHICS AT MADISON

University Pastor's Association Arranges Two Weeks' Session As Independent Undertaking.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 30.—The University Pastor's Association of the University of Wisconsin has decided to hold a summer school of religion in the university Y. M. C. A. building for two weeks, from July 17 to 28. The school is designed for pastors and churchworkers of all denominations, both men and women, as well as for students in the summer session of the university who are interested in religious work.

Church work in country communities and applied Christianity will be the chief topics for consideration. Community social surveys, the development of public recreation, public health, town beautification, juvenile protection, and rural sanitation are other problems that will be discussed.

The speakers include Rev. W. T. Holmes, Watertown, Conn., who will represent the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions that will send a number of Middle Western country pastors to the school at its own expense; Prof. W. T. Muel, Ripon College; Rev. Moses Brezee, of the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions; Rev. F. W. Gundersen, of Chicago; President O. S. Davis of the Chicago Theological Seminary, and Prof. E. A. Ross, A. S. Alexander, J. G. Moore, J. G. Halpin, S. M. Babcock, K. L. Hatch, G. C. Humphrey, and H. L. Russell, of the University of Wisconsin.

FIVE INJURED WHEN STREET CAR IS HIT
BY SPEEDING AUTO

Accident in La Crosse In Which Band of Pleasure Seekers Are Victims.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

La Crosse, May 30.—Five persons were injured, two seriously, when a speeding auto driven by Dr. H. A. Henko, collided head-on with a street car near here late last night. Miss Boush Smith, aged twenty-two, of Pittsville, Wis., sustained a fractured leg and injuries that may result fatally. Dr. Henko's chest was crushed by contact with the steering wheel. Miss Johanna Bonjann, a normal school student, aged twenty-five, and Miss Yoda Steele were both seriously bruised. The car turned squarely around and crashed into a street car.

ALLEGED JEWELRY THIEF CAPTURED

Martin Diamond of New York Arrested, Charged with Stealing Jewelry Belonging to Mrs. Emily Clark.

Martin Diamond of New York City, a young man about twenty-one years of age is lodged in the woman's cell at the police station today awaiting his arraignment tomorrow in the municipal court for the alleged theft of jewelry from Mrs. Emily Clark, who resides at 320 Dodge street in one of the Jaffa flats. Diamond, who is an electrician by trade, was working in the flat yesterday afternoon between four and five o'clock. The jewelry consisted of an old-fashioned topaz with a diamond and chain attached, a topaz with diamond shank, a sapphire of pearls with a diamond in the center, two collar pins, blue and green and a string of gold beads strung on gold wire that were one hundred years old. The jewelry was concealed in a small chamber sack which lay on top of Mrs. Clark's trunk and was easily removed. Mrs. Clark discovered the theft shortly after it was committed and furnished the police with a clue. Quiet investigation by Chief of Police Appleby located the young man and he was arrested last night in his room where he had retired. The chamber sack with the jewelry in it was found in a bureau drawer.

On account of it being a legal holiday Diamond could not be arraigned today but will be brought before the judge tomorrow morning. The police are of the opinion that Diamond is no novice as a letter found in the young man's pocket from his sister in Brooklyn eludes him for being a bad boy, causing the family worry because of the trouble he got into and requests him not to ask for any more money as the family cannot afford to send him more. The prisoner folded weeping in the cell this morning when questioned by the district attorney. He claims he was born in Russia, but his parents soon after his birth came to this country and lived in New York. He attended a trade school there and worked for the Edison company. A short time ago he came west to Milwaukee where he visited with an aunt. He claimed that a short time ago he was taken with a fit of hysterics on the street and went to the Emergency Hospital in Milwaukee. He seemed to be extremely nervous this morning.

Off for the Coronation.

Winthrop, Minn., May 30.—A detachment of fifty officers and men of the Cameron Highlanders of Winthrop departed for the east today en route to attend the coronation. The contingent has engaged passage to sail from Montreal Friday on the Allan line steamer Corcoran. Upon their arrival in England the soldiers will take up their quarters at Andershot where they will remain until time to go up to London for the Coronation processions.

FATALITY LIST IN COLLISION MONDAY
MAY BE INCREASED

Two of the Twenty-six Injured at Mc-Cook, Neb., May Die. Increasing

Two Students Met Death By Drowning
Last Night On the Minnesota
River.—Bodies Not Recovered.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Minneapolis, May 30.—Through the capsizing of a canoe in which they were taking a pleasure trip, Fred Kingsland, aged twenty-two, son of Mrs. Gertrude Kingsland, dean of women at Hamline University, and Louis Kommer, aged 19, both students at the Midway School, were drowned last night in the Minnesota river, six miles above Ft. Snelling. The bodies have not been recovered.

BOTH INJURED IN A BAD RUNAWAY

Horse Runs Away and Occupants of Rig Are Badly

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Edgerton, May 30.—A young horse, being driven to this city by Irving Wentworth, just northwest of here on the Stoughton road, became frightened and ran away. Mr. Wentworth and daughter were thrown from the carriage and quite severely injured. Mr.
Wentworth's shoulder was fractured and the young lady received such a jolt that she was unconscious for nearly two hours. The horse, after becoming freed from the rig, ran about 80 rods and stopped to feed on the grass by the roadside. Mr. Wentworth is suffering severely from his injuries.

Mrs. W. McAllister of Chicago came last night for a week's visit with relatives.

Misses Altona Manogue and Myrtle Yale of Milton Junction were here yesterday and today, guests of their teacher, Miss Rose Harrington and other members of the family.

Mrs. Wray Watson and daughters,
Mrs. H. B. Knapp and Miss Emily
Watson were Janesville visitors yesterday.

The graduating class of the Edgerton high school, numbering twenty-two, drove to Stoughton last night to witness the graduating exercises of the Stoughton high school class.

Henry Wesendonk was a Duluth visitor yesterday on business.
Saturday night will witness the beginning of the band concert for the season by the Edgerton Concert band.
The Edgerton Advancement association has raised $600 for the band for that purpose.

Mrs. Strassburg, after residing in Sank City for the past year, has returned to again take up her home here. She is accompanied here by her granddaughter, Miss Edie Kopp, who returns again Wednesday.

Dick Stricker was in Janesville last night assisting the Hatch orchestra in a dancing party.

A social dance tonight in Academy hall will be the closing event of Decoration Day in this city.

With the change of time of train service from the east on the Milwaukee road will afford the Edgerton readers of The Gazette to receive their paper about 40 minutes earlier in the evening from the former time.

International Musical Congress.

London, May 30.—The fourth congress of the International Musical Society was formally opened today with interesting ceremonies at the University of London. Representatives of many of the countries of the world were in attendance. The congress will be devoted to papers and discussions dealing with the art and science of music, while the afternoon and evening will be given over to recitals and concerts in which many musicians of international reputation will take part.

Offices Closed Today: All offices at the city hall today, including the municipal court, city clerk, city treasurer, and city engineer's offices, were closed today on account of it being a legal holiday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Newark, N. J., May 30.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was the chief speaker today at the unveiling of the statue of Lincoln on the plaza in front of the court house in this city. Lincoln Post, of the Grand Army of the Republic, conducted the ceremonies which were of a most impressive character.

The statue is a gift to the city from the late Amos H. Van Horn, who bequeathed $25,000 for the purpose. The monument is of bronze and was designed by Gutzon Borglum. It shows the martyr "president in a characteristic attitude, seated on a bench, with his familiar high hat at his side. The monument is six feet six inches high and nine feet four inches in width.

THE SPORT WORLD

BASEBALL NOTES.

With Russell Ford in the box the Highlanders come very near being world-beaters.

Manager Doolin of the Quakers copied a real regular pitcher when he signed Alander the great.

If the Cubs want to dispose of it, there are several clubs willing to grab the wild heaver.

Maddox and O'Connor, the former Pirates battery, are working for the Kansas City club of the American association.

Mike Donlin may join the Boston Red Sox. Mike has been out of the game two years, but claims that he is still there as a hitter.

Major league scouts are sizing up George Allen Davis, Jr., the Williams College pitcher who has trimmed both Yale and Princeton.

Eddie Collins, the star second sacker of the champions, says that the Athletics will repeat that season and put Detroit down with the tunnel diggers.

Pitcher Frank Smith will now have a chance to show his wares to Manager Griffith of the Cincinnati Reds. Frank was a star with the White Sox for several years.

Accident insurance amounting to $100,000 has been taken out on the Cleveland players. If this is true, Bill Dahlen should be able to take out $50,000 on the Brooklyn Dodgers.

If a rule were passed prohibiting a city having two good ball teams at the same time, St. Louis fans wouldn't care and Philadelphia fans would kick their heads off. Funny, how unreasonable some people are.

In the recent Boston, Cincinnati series the pitchers got all that was coming to them. Ten home runs were hit during the series and the scorers had hard work to keep count of the singles, doubles and triples.

Jesse Burkett is on the job again, playing right field for his Worcester team. Jesse has decided not to play ball this season, but when the New England League battle opened, the old soldier couldn't stand the idleness.

Charley Dryden says that Ping Bodie of the White Sox is as fresh as a crate of raw cucumbers. In a recent game Ping became peeved at a decision of Umpire Bill Dineen, and started to do a bush league jig. Leave it to Bill to grab that sort of stunt. He grabbed Ping and shook him like Lizzie shakes a dust cloth.

WITH THE BOXERS.

Al Kaufman has returned to California and will do no more boxing until next fall.

Jim Flynn says that he would rather trim the so-called "white hopes" than be a "hope" himself.

Jack (Twin) Sullivan is anxious to fight Jim Flynn. Jack is confident that he can whip the Pueblo fromman.

Devon Horse Show Opens.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 30.—Society turned out in force today at the opening of the second annual exhibition of the Devon Horse Show Association. KNOWN AS FISH A LA CREME Attractive and Convenient Method of Serving Almost Any Kind of the Finny Tribe.

Four to six pounds of fish, one to one and a half pints of white sauce, and one cup cracker crumbs moistened in one-third cup of melted butter. This is one of the most attractive and convenient methods of serving any kind of dry white fish, haddock, cod or eel. Clean the fish, cook in boiling salted water, with one tablespoon vinegar, till the flesh separates easily. Drain and when cool remove the skin and bones, and pick apart in flakes. Make a rich white sauce. Put a layer of fish on a platter suitable for serving. Cover with the white sauce, letting the fish soak up all it will; then arrange another layer of fish and sauce. Moisten cracker crumbs in melted butter and spread over the top with a fork. Set the platter in an oven over a pan of hot water, to keep platter from cracking and bake till crumbs are brown. Two or three tablespoons of grated cheese may be mixed with crumbs if you like flavor.

SPLENDID IDEA FOR DESSERT

Combination That Is Known as "Angels' Delight" Liked by All Who Have Tried It.

This is an imitation of brick ice cream, and for the hostess who desires something delicate and inexpensive in the way of desserts this recipe is highly recommended. Moisten four tablespoonsful of gelatin with a little water. When dissolved add two cupsful of boiling water and six tablespoonsful of sugar. Let the mixture come to a boil, then beat in the whites of six eggs, beaten to a froth. Beat until partially cool and stiff; divide into three sections. Flavor section one with vanilla and spread in a layer mold, sprinkling the top with chopped nuts. Color the second portion with fruit or vegetable coloring, flavor with strawberry or lemon, and spread over section one, sprinkling with nuts. Flavor section three with vanilla and spread over section two. Set on ice till firm and serve with whipped cream. This recipe will serve eight people.

Muffins.

This is a very nice recipe for muffins which I always have good luck with. The rule makes one dozen. Mix together and sift one pint of flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons sugar. Melt three tablespoons butter. Beat two eggs light and add a generous half pint of milk. Add this mixture to the dry ingredients and stir in the melted butter. Beat the batter vigorously for a few seconds and then put in buttered muffin pans and bake about twenty minutes in quick oven.

Wise Sings.

"Give me your lips," sings an ardent poet, which probably will please the object of his admiration much more than if he had said: "Don't give me any of your lip."

Sick Stars

Chicago, Ill., —Consternation reigns among the managers of four major league teams. An epidemic of sickness has put out of the game temporarily four stars from as many teams. Walter Johnson, the star flinger of the Washington Senators, Ed. Walsh, the local star, Hal Chase, Mgr. of the Highlanders, Eddie Collins, sensational infielder of the world's champions, have all been laid up. The men are not so seriously ill but have all had to leave the game temporarily.

Johnson's ailment was a puzzle for the doctors, but the general opinion is that he had the grippe. Hal Chase is down with pneumonia, and will hardly be able to play for a month, but Eddie Collins has nothing more than a sprained ankle.

Walsh was at the park on pay day, but he looked as if he lost ten pounds in weight.

Two banks failed in a little dried up town of central New York the other day and one man had $10,000 in each which had been deposited for fifteen years drawing two per cent interest. Had he put the money in Wisconsin farm loans he would have had $12,000 more interest and all his money. Instead he received $6,700 from the receiver. In other words he invested $20,000 and received $6,000 in interest and $7,000 final dividend, total $13,000. By the farm mortgage route he would have invested $20,000 and have received $18,000 interest and the whole principal, total $38,000. He lost just $25,000 by not using good judgment in investing his money.

We have several small mortgages now on hand. Write us.

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO DEPARTED COMRADES

GRAND ARMY VETERANS, SPANISH WAR SOLDIERS AND AUXILIARIES, OBSERVE MEMORIAL DAY.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES

Were Held At the Cemeteries This Morning and Services With Address At the Opera House This Afternoon.

Members of the W. H. Sargent Post No. 20, the W. R. C., and the Harry L. Gifford Camp of United Spanish War Veterans with their auxiliary, attended the exercises at the cemeteries this morning and at the services at the Myers Opera House this afternoon.

The entire preparation for the observance of Memorial Day was in charge of the G. A. R. under the direction of Commander C. B. Evans. Arrangements for the day were most complete and there was a large gathering of the veterans and of the citizens at the cemeteries this morning and at the services at the Myers Opera House this afternoon.

At half past eight o'clock this morning the members of Post began to assemble and at nine o'clock fifteen automobiles carrying between sixty and seventy veterans of the Civil War left the Main and Milwaukee street corner for the cemeteries. At the cemeteries wreaths and flowers, which had been made and gathered by the members of the W. R. C. and the school children, were placed on each grave marked with the flag, designating the resting place of a departed hero.

Salutes were fired over the Grand Army lots in each cemetery by a squad of Spanish War Veterans, and the G. A. R. drum corps played martial music. A band of school girls aided in the decoration of the graves and sang several patriotic songs. There was a large gathering of citizens at the cemeteries, there also to pay tribute to departed loved ones, and to present while the Boys of '61 to '65 whose ranks are now sadly depleted, paid their respects to departed comrades.

The afternoon exercises were held in the Myers Opera House and the Veterans assembled again at half past one o'clock, marching in the following order to the services:

Flower City Band.

School Boys.

Spanish War Veterans.

Grand Army Men.

The program was as follows:

Presiding officer—Commander C. B. Evans.

Music by drum corps, selections.

Music—Flower City Band.

Prayer—Dr. David Deaton.

Song—"The Old Guard"—Chorus of School Boys.

Reading, "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address"—S. C. Burnham.

Solo—Ralph Dickey, with Chorus: Harry Badger, Leo Frances, Harry Fuchs, Joe Dixon, Norman Carlo, John Haywood, Harry Williams, Harry Fischer, Nelson Frances, David McCulloch, Thomas Cronin, Robert Miller, Herbert Kunkin, Frank Campbell, Orville Kroll, Cuthbert Bladen.

Address—Prof. H. C. Buell.

Song—"My Own United States"—Chorus of School Boys.

Closing song, "America"—Entire Audience.

The names of the boys from the different schools of the city who marched in the procession this afternoon and sang in the choruses at the opera house are as follows:

Special officers or guards: Rush Bork, John Humphrey, Leo Frances and Louis Kimmel.

The others—Henry Kueck, Orville Kronitz, Harry Fischer, Leo Frances, Harry Williams, Cuthbert Bladen, Lloyd Jones, Paul Leslie, Walter Williams, Henry Ford, Robert Miller, David McCulloch, Winifred Davidson, Harry Badger, James Dixon, Ross Lowrey, Malcolm Douglas, Linus Young, Horatio De Coster, Richard Orkin, Philip O'Donnell, Carl Cain, Ralph Carver, Robert Crowley, Joseph Prox, Walter Schilling, Ralph Dickey, John Huth, Herbert Kunkin, Thomas Cronin, John Humphrey, Edward Wobke, George Spohn, Joe Dixon, Dorey Brinker, Richard O'Donnell, Herbert Kunkin, Everett Stiles, Robert Austin, Lawrence Wright, Robert Miller, Kenneth Brown, Loren Kowsey, Harry Fuchs, Frank McMillen, Rush Bork, Leslie Lowrey, Harold Joerg, John Koch, Carl Spaulding, Leslie Hilton, Clarence Anderson, Harold Downs, Earl Foster, Guy Buchanan, Edward Thiele, Willard Skelly, Arthur Nemes, Stanley Baker, Rupert Oas, George Oak, Valentine Weber, Frank Campbell, Roy Smith, John Haywood, George McCarthy, Richard Ellis, Arthur Amerpohl, Elroy Mangor, Harold Amerpohl, Norman Carlo, Hallett Day, Nelson Francis, Carroll Whaley, Percy Bryant, Robert Kunkin.

CHIEF REPORTS ON FIRE DEPARTMENT

Chief Engineer H. C. Klein Submits Quarterly Report To Common Council.

To the Mayor and Common Council of the City of Janesville, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen:—I herewith submit the quarterly report of the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, and in doing so will state, that we are exceedingly fortunate in the way of fires. So far as I have been able to ascertain at this time, the fire loss since the first day of January of the present year, will not exceed $2,000. There has been forty-five (45) alarms of fire during this period of time, of which thirty (30) were "still" alarms.

All of the fire horses at this time are in good serviceable condition, with two exceptions, one of these should be immediately disposed of and a new one purchased; the other one I believe can be doctored so that he will again be in good condition, which is being done at this time.

I will respectfully ask that some competent person be requested to examine the bell tower on No. 1 fire station, as to the safety of the same. The doors and casings of No. 1 fire station are in need of considerable repairs and painting.

In view of the fact that we are about to remove the old hose tower on No. 2 fire station, the chief engineer desires to be instructed what to do with the brick that comes out of this structure. There is no room around this station for the storage of the same.

I will respectfully request that some steps be taken that ultimately lead to a betterment of the sanitary conditions of No. 1 and No. 2 fire stations. At the time when windows and doors are closed these stations are hardly fit for a human being to reside in.

Our fire alarm wires in a number of places throughout the city are in need of repairs, and the replacement of a large number of dead-end cross-arms, also new wire will be necessary to place the alarm system in a reliable condition. I will therefore in the near future make out a requisition and hand the same to the purchasing committee for the necessary material.

I will respectfully recommend that 500 feet of three inch fire hose be purchased.

I will respectfully recommend that an ordinance be enacted prohibiting the building or erection of billboards in the fire limits or down town district. These billboards are not only unsightly, but at times the characters depicted on these boards are not edifying. "Young America" in the right direction, and besides some people contend that they should be allowed to build a structure of the same material (these boards usually are built of iron) by erecting such an ordinance it will stop that cry of discrimination in the future, and I believe will be one step in the right direction for "Janesville beautiful".

There seems to be an idea prevalent that the theatre ordinance recently passed by the common council meets the approval of the Chief of the Fire Department, that, at this time I desire to refute, but will say that some of the sections are all they could be to throw out the proper safeguards; while another section is in the ambiguous, and yet has the appearance that there is divided authority delegated to the Police and Fire Departments. I maintain there should be no divided authority to breed confusion on the part of either department, which might lead to confusion and perhaps disaster.

Also, section 3, of the ordinance was changed as originally suggested by the Chief Engineer that there be two aides, to one aide, this I believe taking into consideration the crowded condition of theatres at times to be wrong; or in other words I maintain that two aides are better than one in the time of confusion, notwithstanding that the one aide might be the equivalent in width to two aides. Furthermore, in sections 1, 2 and 4 the Common Council has delegated to the Chief of the Fire Department arbitrary powers. This I have reasons to believe will not stand, if brought into a court of law, and is therefore of no effect.

Another condition that usually exists in a building used for public entertainments, which results in the confusion of the janitorial staff, is that the janitor is to select all securities, which are hidden recesses throughout the edifice as a storehouse for waste paper, and other rubbish which accumulates in the building under his charge. A few hundred pounds of this sort of merchandise makes a prolific fire incubator, and is always in a receptive mood for the accident "pill" usually indulged in by the boy custodian of the stage, who, if he becomes ambitious of his movements to dispose of this "dope stick" it usually finds lodgement in this rubbish and therefore might lead to disastrous results. I therefore will respectfully suggest that a clause be inserted in the theatre ordinance that will penalize anyone that persists in having these conditions exist.

Respectfully submitted,
H. C. KLEIN,
Chief Engineer.

PONY PARADE DELIGHTED CHILDREN THIS MORNING

Hundreds of little people this morning were delighted with the parade of the pony show of the St. John's Brothers, which was the Decoration Day festival of the younger generation. Numerous small boys who had invaded the circus lot this morning led the diminutive beauties and wearing red coats wore the envy of their less fortunate friends. Several cages of trained dogs yapped and barked at the passerby and a few monkeys in cages gave the whole show a distinctive child's performance.

SCOUT MOVEMENT TO BE ORGANIZED HERE

BETWEEN THIRTY AND FORTY SCHOOL BOYS HAVE SIGNIFIED INTENTION OF BECOMING MEMBERS.

PLANS ARE UNDER WAY

It is Expected That An Organization Will Be Perfected Shortly Through Efforts of Mrs. Georgia Hyde.

It is now nearly certain that Janesville will have a boy scout organization and through the efforts of Mrs. Georgia Hyde plans are already well under way for the perfecting of an organization. Some thirty or forty boys in the different graded schools of the city have signified their intention to belong to the scout movement. Information and literature has been received from the headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America at New York and they have been written regarding the methods and means of organization.

Mrs. Hyde, through her work as musical director in the city schools, has had an opportunity to become acquainted with the boys as perhaps no other person has, and consequently is in a position to start the movement and see that an organization is secured.

Most of the boys who have signified the intention of becoming members were in the chorus of boys who sang at the opera house this afternoon and all have entered into the idea with a great deal of animation which will mean for success. It has been thought best to keep the membership small until organization has been entirely completed as the best results in the beginning can be obtained in this way.

From the present indications there will be a band of Janesville Boy Scouts in the military parade on July Fourth. It is planned to secure the necessary uniforms as soon as possible after the boys who have already pledged membership, have organized, and if they appear in the procession the Fourth it will give an impetus to the movement.

As far as possible the boys will be allowed to make their own plans and select their own leader and leaders. It is an organization for the boys alone and the boys are the ones to do the work. Nearly all that have been approached on the matter are overjoyed and are ready to start learning the rules and the various other qualifications necessary to be a member of the national boy scouts.

The movement has met with marked success all over the country and is organized in nearly all the large cities of the United States. During the past winter Deloit has organized a band and other towns in Wisconsin are fast coming to the fore with their Scouts.

The purpose of the movement as outlined in a pamphlet issued at headquarters is: "Character building for boys between the ages of twelve and eighteen. It is an effort to get boys to appreciate the things about them, and to train them in self-reliance, manhood and good citizenship. It is a peace-seeking that the boys are engaged in, living as much as possible out-of-doors, camping, hiking, and learning the secrets of the woods and fields. The movement is not military, but the military virtues of discipline, obedience, neatness and order are scout virtues. Endurance, self-reliance, self-control, and an effort to help some one else and scout objectives. Every activity that lends itself to these aims is good, scoutcraft."

"The aim of the Boy Scouts is to supplement the various existing educational agencies, and to promote the ability in boys to do things for themselves and others. The method is summed up in the term Scoutcraft, and is a combination of observation, deduction, and handicraft—or the ability to do things. Scoutcraft consists of first aid, life saving, swimming, signaling, cycling, nature study, woodcraft, camping, woodcraft, citizenship, patriotism, and other instruction. The only equipment that it needs is the out-of-doors, a group of boys and a leader."

The Boy Scout movement has been productive of such good results in the cities where it has been instituted, that Janesville citizens will undoubtedly do all in their power to aid in the movement here. However, the boys themselves are the ones to make it a real success.

At the regular meeting of the American Red Cross lodge No. 26 the following officers were elected: Noble Grand—Emma Morse. Vice Grand—Sara Dougherty. Rec. Sec.—Beatrice Muller. Delegates to State Assembly: Maud Palmer and Minnie Blaw.

PEACE FOR THE ENGINEERS

Eastern Journal's Tribute to High Principles and Intelligence of Labor Organization.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has the reasonableness and self-control of great strength and high intelligence. It does not talk lightly of a strike. It means a tremendous struggle when such an organization grapples with the rich and vast common carrying corporations which move the bulk of the country's merchandise and carry most of its passengers. The engineers court no such ordeals if they can gain the ends they seek, in any fair degree, without industrial war.

Because they are slow to strike and quick to consider compromise conditions, when trouble seems near, the deadlock between the brotherhood and many of the great railroad companies in the west became extremely menacing when it appeared that neither side would yield enough for an amicable agreement. The strain grew so severe that a break was imminent, and the whole country knew that if it came it would be a grave disaster.

But at the last moment peace was arranged, and the darkest cloud which has gathered in the business sky for many months has blown over. It will give the American people more courage for the new year and higher hopes of extraordinary prosperity, and the settlement reached will go far toward insuring like agreements in case of similar disputes.—Cleveland Leader.

The Cape to Cairo Railway.

The last section of the Cape to Cairo railway from the north, via, from Khartum to Wad Madani, about 100 miles, was opened on January 1, and the traffic during the first half year's working has surpassed all expectations.

The amount of produce secured from this new section has been a revelation to every one. The freight returns for the first month's working were $50,000. From most parts of the Sudan hitherto served by the railway one or two train loads a week would be considered good. On this new section a train every day has hardly been sufficient to carry down all the stuff, chiefly durra (native corn), gum and cotton. The fourth class native passenger traffic has produced almost enough to pay the working expenses of the section.

This is the first portion of the railway to leave the desert part of the Sudan and break into the edge of the land naturally fertile without artificial irrigation. If the success of this first 100 miles is any index to the possibilities of the rest of the country to the south, it would appear that the most sanguine forecast of the country's commercial future were about to be realized. The rail head is now some distance further south, and the section will probably be opened to traffic next winter.

Pennsylvania's New Pension Plan.

Employees of the Pennsylvania railroad are greatly interested in the action to be taken on a new pension plan which, it is reported, is being worked out at the general offices in Philadelphia. If the new system is approved by the railroad management it will result in a considerable shake-up among the employees, retiring all of the men over sixty or sixty-five years of age, instead of over seventy as at present.

The new system calls for voluntary retirement at the age of sixty years and a compulsory retirement of all who reach the age of seventy years in service. This would enable the men to retire five and ten years sooner than the present plan, and it is said it would affect about eight per cent. of the employees.

Ties Coming From Australia.

The first large consignment of railroad ties shipped from Australia to the United States is on its way to Honolulu, Cal. They are mainly iron-bark, much used in railroad construction in Australia, and number 60,000.

Where 300 Rebels Were Killed in Battle.

Map showing the location and surroundings of the most important battle in the entire Mexican revolution. Three thousand rebels were in camp in the mountains just outside of Cuautla. At Cuautla there were stationed 250 regulars, and at Chilpancingo 500 regulars. The regulars from both cities closed in on the rebel forces and took them by surprise, inflicting heavy loss of life. As soon as the rebel forces could rally they drove the regulars back to their fortifications. The scene of this battle was seventy miles South East of Mexico City and took place regardless of the armistice between Madero and Diaz.

The English Workman.

Next to this "sentimentality," so astonishing to Europe—because so irrational—comes the invincible patience of the English workman. He will endure almost anything—in silence—until it becomes unendurable. When he is vocal it is pretty certain that things have become unendurable. —English Nation.

His Own Manufacture.

Sir William Bailey "played this off," as he expressed it, at a dinner at which the late Cardinal Vaughan sat near to him. "Where did you get that bit of history from?" the cardinal asked. "I didn't get it from anywhere," Sir William answered. "I make history as I go on."

Antiquity of the Mortgage.

The mortgage comes direct down to us from the Romans, but its antiquity is much more remote than the Roman nation. The Greeks, Carthaginians, Persians, Egyptians, Babylonians, all know of the mortgage, and daily used it in their business transactions.

The Ostentatious Millionaire.

The great wealth in question being an essentially new phenomenon, its American possessors have no inherited culture and no inherited positions to guide them in their personal expenditure of it. It tends to produce a class which is held together internally by nothing but emulous extravagance in income and self-satisfying indulgence, and which asserts its supremacy in the eyes of the general public merely by making this income self-indulgence ostentatious. —W. H. Mallock, in North American Review.

Alphabets of the World.

The alphabets of the various languages of the world vary from 12 to 202 letters. That of the Hawaiian language has only 12 letters, while that of the Tatars is at the other end of the list with 202 letters.

Simple Remedy for Hives.

A simple remedy for hives and one which is usually very successful is this: Every morning for three mornings take a cup of milk, in which has been stirred one tablespoonful of bicarbonate of soda and a half teaspoonful of flowers of sulphur; for a child a teaspoonful of the soda is sufficient and in either case the sulphur may be dispensed with, as the main thing is the alkali to neutralize the acid stomach.

Cat's Advantage.

The following composition was written by a ten-year-old nephew of Josh Billings, when the teacher gave him "Dogs and Cats" for a subject: "Dogs and cats always fight each other when they get a chance; but a dog ain't no match for a cat, because a cat kin make her tail bigger'n a ball club and run up a tree will a dog's gittin' ridy."

Oddity in Advertising.

An Australian settler who wanted a wife to share his hard lot in the wilderness inserted this abbreviated advertisement in a Sydney newspaper: "Settler, ab. 30, start poss. farm, wd. mar. girl past 21, fond outdoor simple life; not afraid 2 or 3 years rough fr. sake make comf. home. Wt. Mr. Shla, G. P. O., Sydney."

Most miles for the least money

The Brush is incomparable on this score—take it from any view point. In first cost, in operation, in repairs, it costs less than any other dependable car made.

Recently a New York editor told us he had paid only $4.65 for repairs during an entire season's constant running.

Innoculated with the big car virus, he bought a big car—but his wife insisted that he keep the Brush for her use.

She could drive it herself, feared no mechanical difficulties—having no big car complications to oppress her.

That's another beauty of the Brush.

It's so simple anyone can drive it.

It's so dependable no mechanical knowledge is necessary to handle it.

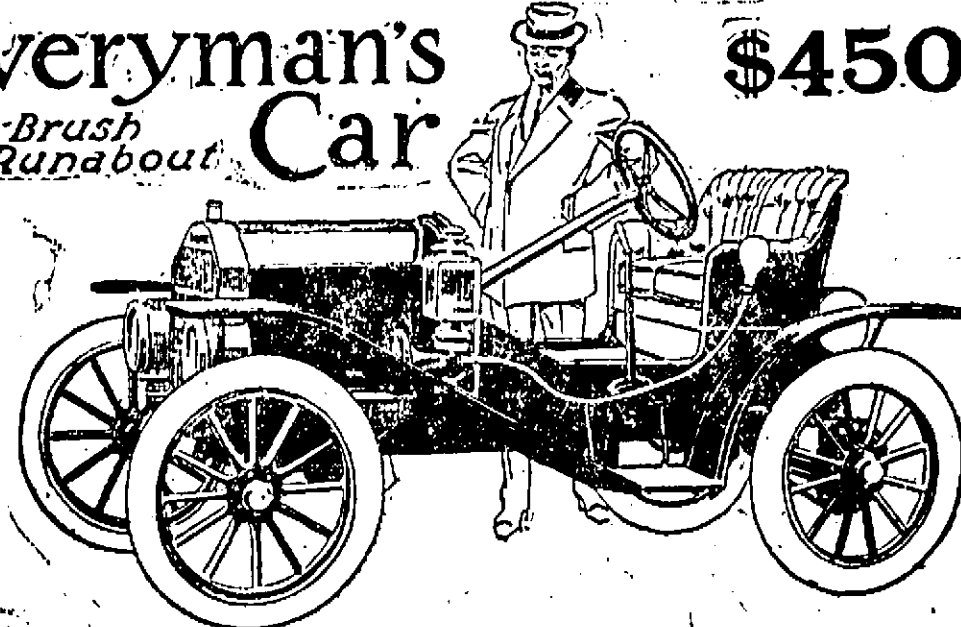

It's so economical anyone can afford to own and operate it.

That's why it's called Everyman's Car.

Let us show you why hundreds are using it to advantage both for business and pleasure.

MEMORIAM

UNFURL thy dear folds
to the breezes of May,
Flag of our pride,
this Memorial Day.
Thy stars are the jewels
of Liberty crowned;
With thy stripes the heart
of our nation is bound.
Dear emblem of freedom, tenderly wave
O'er each sacred mound,
O'er each lowly grave,
Where sleep our brave dead.

WE trim thy dear folds in fragrance and bloom,
In honor of those who rest in the tomb;
Our soldier heroes! today it is ours
To strew their low beds with beautiful flowers:
Sweet gems of the sod,
all wet with the dew,
With hearts full of love
we bring them to you,
Our dear "Boys in Blue."

You Want New Oxfords, of Course
But you don't want a painful shoe. Best way to prevent it is to come here, we'll fit them "like your footprint"—not loose nor tight but right. There are lots of leathers here, too, each kind chosen to please a certain taste, your taste among them.

These shoes and oxfords we're selling for summer wear are about the easiest fitting, most comfortable proposition we know of. They're as cool as shoes can be and will give you a degree of comfort that'll be a pleasure not customary with most shoes.

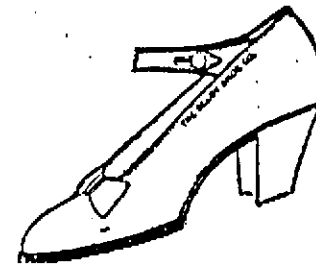

The materials are the lightest weights—the highest standard of quality—and the styles—the best you'll see in town.

Men's Shoes Tan is the popular leather this season, but for the man who prefers blacks we have a comprehensive assortment. Men's and young men's shoes $2.50 to $5.00, styles most in demand at $3.50 and $4.00.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

A LETTER came to me the other day suggesting that I make the condemnation of a certain religious faith and an appeal to all loyal Americans to try to oust those who hold it, from their positions of power in this country, the subject of one of my talks.

I have tried assiduously to think of any subject which I should be less likely to write upon, but I cannot.

I know of nothing that more thoroughly puzzles and disquiets me than that sort of thing.

Why one man should be unwilling that another man should follow the dictates of his own soul as to what God is and how He should be worshipped—as long as his beliefs do not interfere with his conduct as a citizen—is simply incomprehensible to me.

I was once asked to write for a publication which makes its avowed purpose the blackening of a faith to which millions of my countrymen are devoted. If I were starving and this magazine should offer me a dollar a word to write one of the abusive and scurrilous articles which it publishes, I hope—I hope—I don't dare to put it any stronger than that—that I should have the strength of my convictions and should refuse to write the article.

The existence of such a magazine and the existence of the spirit behind it, is a disgrace to this country, founded as it was by men who came here seeking not wealth or power, but simply "freedom to worship God."

That a man who believes in his right idea about God and eternity should want to communicate his great secret to other men seems perfectly natural to me, but that he should grow furiously angry and embittered because some other men think they have the right idea is about as absurd as that two civilized nations should want to kill and maim and wound each other, thinking by this killing and maiming and wounding to settle a question of right and wrong.

I must confess I respect a genuinely honest atheist or agnostic who lives as close as he can to his ideals and honors other men's faith, more than this kind of a Christian; for, with Tonyson, I believe:

"There lives more faith in honest doubt, Believe me, than in half the creeds."

Are you reading this and agreeing with me, and acquitting yourself of any such spirit of unreasoning anger or bitterness?

Then wait a moment, my friend.

Is there no sect that you occasionally speak slightly of?

Do you never have the feeling in your heart that your particular division of worshippers are right and all the rest wrong?

Here, indeed, I fancy is the man or woman who could answer an emphatic "never" to those two questions.

Too many of us, I fear, would have to modify it to "hardly ever."

Perhaps that is inevitable.

Perhaps a certain amount of bigotry is as natural and necessary a part of the human makeup as an instinct of self preservation, and people with it left out are freaks of nature like Albinos, for instance.

I wonder.

But this I am sure of. That however strongly a man may feel that he has the right of revelation, if he is a really fine man, he will not speak abusively of his neighbor's revelation.

"Oh I thought Papistry a funny thing, which I do," said the gentle Elfrick Shepherd, once on a time, "I would not scruple to say so in such terms as were consistent with good manners and with charity and humility of heart. But I would call no man a leper."

Surely that is a sentiment that any true gentleman or woman could subscribe to.

The Katherine Kip Editorial

IMPOSSIBLE TO GET EVEN.

You can't get even with any one who has done you an injury. You can't get even with anyone whom you fancy has done you an injury. The moment you attempt it you put yourself on his level and do yourself a greater injury than he possibly could.

Getting even, at any rate is a very poor way of showing one's powers of endurance. Strength is not shown in seizing an opportunity to pay up an injury with one. Strength is shown in being too big to return in like.

And even if the opportunity comes to repay an injury with an unkind act, what satisfaction can there come of it? To a person of sensitive makeup the knowledge that unkindness has been done when the reverse was just as easy to do, can bring no satisfaction. On the contrary it can bring a world of regret.

If we could but remember that we are but sojourners in a world where every individual has his troubles and sorrows and that we can pass through the world but once, we would be more considerate of our treatment of others. We would less often attempt to spoil the joy of living for others and we would less often render unkindness when we might be kind. It should be our policy in life to make friends, not foes. It should also be our endeavor to shed as much happiness as possible in the way of others. If we can bring ourselves to that policy in life we have no need to worry about our status in the minds of others.

Life is too short for unkindness. It is too short for the petty business of getting even. It is too short to miss the opportunity for doing good. It is too short for anything but good will.

Let us forget the injuries done us by others. Because our neighbor, or our associate in any work does us an injury or tries to get an advantage at our expense is no reason why we should dwarf our own natures and spell the symmetry of our characters. Life offers too much of genuine encouragement and pleasure to waste any of its sweetness of pathos. Life is too full of real pleasures to allow the influence of anyone else to turn us into instruments for revenge. Rather should we play the man or woman so constituted that they cannot see the grandeur of life—and particularly a life devoted to high ideals.

Half of the spoiled lives are the result of allowing the future to run away with the judgment. We color our lives. No one else can do it for us. Therefore, if the hues are dull and uninteresting who is to blame? Not the man or woman who passes through the orbit of our existence for a brief time and then passes out of it forever. Not anyone but ourselves.

If we miss the sunshine and never behold anything but the clouds and the mist who is to blame? Just one person and that not our neighbor. So it will do no good to try to repay his life with a sample of what our own is like when it is thoroughly aroused. So let's do not try it.

Years of Glory

By Byron Williams

When you and I went walking, dear, Adown the path together, 'Twas always golden sunset then And always June the weather: The world had taught for us to fear, And all the way was gladness; The birds were singing songs of love, With never a note of sadness.

When you and I went walking, sweet, In days long gone forever, There were no ways but joyous ways—No forking ways to never. The path marked north our feet And led to realms of glory Where I might tell, and you might hear The words of love's old story!

Ah, love that knows no truth but this—The vows of youth and gladness—No plighting but the one of spring, Before the days of madness! Ah, youth that leaves the perfect bliss That sets the heart to beating, Before the world has struck its gang Upon our love dreams fleeting!

When you and I went walking, dear, Adown the path together, 'Twas always golden sunset then And always June the weather: Come back to me, O sweetest fair, From out the years of glory, And let me whisper once again The words of love's old story!

Man.

It is just a little journey from the cradle to the grave. Just a wink of time eternal, just one single ocean wave!

All realities turn the silent, never-resting wheel of time—Human speech within the orbit, we are whirling to its rhyme; And the circles that we travel in the universal one; Are but flashes of the spindles to the Great Oblivion!

In the infinite and boundless all-unnumbered year on year, Who shall know when we, transcendent, for a moment linger here? Who but He who "painted the cosmos" shall have knowledge when we whirled.

Just a flash of dying spindle, in the circle of the world? What shall justify our ego on our evanescent way, When we pause but to consider we are atoms of a day?

Byron Williams.

Ribbon Fig-Cake.

One cup butter, one cup sugar, three cups sifted flour, one cup milk, four eggs beaten separately, three heaping teaspoons baking powder. Take half the butter and pour into three or four jelly tins. On each layer put split pressed figs—Imported are best—seeds up. Take the remainder of the batter and add two tablespoons molasses, one cup seedless raisins, half a cup currants, one teaspoon cinnamon, half a teaspoon cloves. Bake and place the layers alternately with thick white icing between.

Steamed Fruit Puffs.

Sift together two cups flour and three teaspoons baking powder, and a pinch of salt. Add one cup milk, making a heavy batter. Grease small cups. Put tablespoon of batter in each, then a spoonful of either strawberry or raspberry jam, and cover with more batter. Steam for half an hour. When done, turn out on small plates and serve hot with cream or sauce. The above quantity will make six puffs.

SOME EVERY DAY LUNCHEONS.

For a main dish for luncheon or supper, a chowder or cream soup is always acceptable. One may make a chowder of potatoes and fish or corn. The soup may be bean, potato or vegetable, with which milk combines well. Sweet omelets are great favorites as a light dessert. Spread jelly over the omelet before putting it into the oven. Warm the jelly by letting it stand in hot water for a half hour.

For a salad, here is a simple one: Italian Salad.—Take six boiled potatoes, cut in dice, six flaked sardines, three small cucumber pickles cut fine and a stalk of celery cut in small bits. Serve with French dressing.

Bordeaux Pudding.—This is a pudding that not only looks good, but it tastes good:

Cut a sponge cake into three layers and put together with jam, cover with whipped cream sweetened and flavored and sprinkle with chopped nuts. Serve on a chop plate.

Beef Olives.—Take slices of rare roast beef and roll each around a thin slice of bacon which has been fried long enough to be transparent, but not crisp. Bind with twine and boil for five minutes; drain and remove the strings. Add the bacon fat to some of the beef gravy, season with catsup or Worcestershire; boil up again and pour over the olives. Serve very hot.

Broiled lamb chops garnished with peas make a dish very nice to serve for a luncheon.

Cevilled Mutton.—Cut two large slices from an underdone roast; have them about an inch thick. Score each side with a sharp knife. Rub in two tablespoons of olive oil, one of vinegar and a teaspoonful of dry mustard; season with red pepper. Broil the slices, put on a hot platter and dot with butter. Serve at once.

Newspaper Advertisement Points Way to Health

I can truthfully say that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is a very good medicine, not alone for kidney trouble, but also for weak and sore back, as well as for rheumatism. About a year ago I became ill and unable to work, my trouble being a lame back. I read of your Swamp-Root in the newspaper and in an Almanac. Believing it would do me good, I went to my drugist, Mr. Skinner, and purchased a bottle. Finding relief in one fifty-cent bottle, I purchased several more and in a short time was able to continue with my work and am today feeling well and strong. I always recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root to my friends as I believe it is as good a medicine as can be found.

MEMORIAL DAY.

May 30.—Today is Memorial Day for the heroes who fought, and the martyrs who fell in the civil war. The confederates have a similar way to honor their dead, but the different days on which to observe it. James Redpath is credited with the suggesting of memorial day. He was in Charleston, S. C., soon after the war and the holding of memorial services for the dead soldiers was merely a local incident. As a teacher he tried to make the people forget the incidents of the war, and to bring them to a spirit of tolerance for the victor and vanquished. After one of his speeches a little colored girl suggested that everybody turn in and on a certain day place so many flowers on the graves that all roundness of the war would be blotted out. The idea took. May was named, the whole community turned out, and the cemetery was turned into a wilderness of flowers. A battalion of soldiers took part in this first memorial day, May 1, 1865. From that day the custom spread with such rapidity that in 1869, Gen. John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, changed the date to May 30, with the request that it be observed wherever there were dead soldiers. Gen. Logan had named the day Decoration Day, but it was changed to Memorial Day in 1884, at the request of the Grand Army of the Republic.

WRITES ABOUT THE CITY OF HONGKONG

MISS MARY HUMPHREY, FORMERLY OF JANEVILLE, GIVES INTERESTING ACCOUNT OF CHINESE CITY.

PEOPLE AND CUSTOMS

Town is Like an English City With a Chinese Quarter—Personal Experiences Are Related.

Miss Mary Humphrey, whose home is in this city, and who is a nurse in the navy department, writes an interesting account of the city of Hongkong which she has recently visited. The letter which is addressed to her mother, follows:

Hongkong, China, April 13, 1911.

Dear Mother: Hongkong is distinctly an English city, with an extensive Chinese section, rather than a Chinese city. The business center and main part of the city is occupied and built up by English capital, so the general appearance of the city is quite like an American city. It is only in the customs and practices of the people that we realize it is not America. Take the street cars for instance; they are of the most antiquated style of construction, as far as the mechanism is concerned, and they are divided into first, second, and third class, by a partition across the car. First class occupies the forward part of the car, second class the middle section, the third class the rear end. Prices are 10c for first, 8c for second and 5c for third class in Hongkong money, which is less than one-half the value of American money. At the bank we received in exchange for an American $5.00, $11.40 in Hongkong money. Each city in China has its own money, although Hongkong money will be accepted in other cities. This morning at the postoffice, the clerk refused to take a 20c Canton place in payment for stamps, but the street car conductor took it. Canton money is less a few cents in exchange than Hongkong money, so it is not popular in Hongkong, while the reverse is true in Canton. In making change in Canton, for Hongkong money, we were always given Canton, although we paid in Hongkong money. The merchant made a few cents by the transaction, and we lost.

But to go back to the street cars. The conductor and motorman are all Chinamen, wearing long queues and the Chinese costumes which look odd enough to us, but this is what amuses us most and shows the slow English way of adopting up-to-date customs. The conductor carries a canvas bag, slung over his shoulder, just like a newsboy's bag, for holding change.

The signs are all strange to us. Instead of "Post No Bills" it is "Stick no bills," instead of "elevators" it is "lift," lunch is called "tiffin," baggage is "luggage," etc.

The table d'hôte is the hardest for us to adopt ourselves to. Water comes to be the last thing the waiters think of. We have to almost beg for a glass of ice water. To serve you to water when you sit down to the table, as the American waiter would do, is never done.

Each item on the menu card is numbered and you order by number and only one thing at a time. I have to fight with the waiters to get potatoes with my meat order even. They want and expect you to eat each thing separate, then remove that plate and return with the next number on the menu card. We are staying at the Anson House, which ranks among the best, but the food is abominable. We have had work to get enough which is fit to eat, to satisfy our hunger. Nothing is cooked well and it is always cold when we get it.

The bath is the most funniest thing to us. They are large round stone tubs, larger at the top than bottom, and have no outlet. Coolies have to bring the water from somewhere, and then carry it away in buckets. An American would never put up with such cumbersome methods.

We passed by a stone quarry this morning in a street car or "tram" as it is called here, and the only means of crushing the stone is by coolies or Chinese women working with hammers. It seemed incomprehensible to us.

Hongkong is really the name of the island not of the city, although common usage has made the name apply to the city as well as the island, but on the map it is called Victoria. The island is entirely mountainous with only a little narrow strip of level land near the shore where the city is built. The mountains rise precipitously 2,000 ft. and are covered with dense, thick forest. It is difficult to do much climbing or those of Honolulu, England has fully appreciated the beauty of the mountains, for she has constructed a cable tram road up the top of the highest peak and then at the top of the highest peak, reached by this tram in its ascent, has constructed elegant roads winding around the sides of the mountains, skirting the entire island, at those three different levels. We have only walked on two of them thus far but expect to do all three roads before we leave. The tram ride makes your hair stand on end for the car is almost in a perpendicular position during most of the ascent. It took some courage to take the ride but it paid when we reached the top. The ascent is 2,000 ft. We went up Monday afternoon before starting for Canton. It had been raining all the morning but the sky was clearing when we went up so we hoped the clouds would lift off the peak so we could get a good view of the harbor, but we found ourselves enveloped in clouds so we could not see a thing below our level. We are going to try it again the first day there is a clear sky, and then we will walk on the winding road built from the bottom to the top of the mountain. Yesterday we walked two miles out on the Queen's Jubilee road, which extends west from the city on the lowest road. The views of ocean, islands, valleys, and mountains were a constant panorama. We longed for an auto to take us to the top of the island, for it seemed that every few feet we viewed a new scene. We have not seen a carriage since we landed in China, and this far but no auto. All traveling is done by boat or in the DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—it begins to look as if the committee on ways and means was stuck.

(Copyright A. B. McGraw & Co., N.Y.)

They pushed on hour after hour, as long as daylight lasted or they could perceive the faintest trace to follow. Already half-convinced that he knew the ultimate destination of the fugitives, Keith yet dare not venture on pressing forward during the night, thus possibly losing the trail and being compelled to retrace their steps. It was better to proceed slow and sure. Besides, judging from the condition of their own horses, the pursued would be compelled to halt somewhere to rest their stock also. Their trail even revealed the fact that they were traveling far less rapidly than at first, although evidently making every effort to cover the greatest possible distance before stopping. Just as the dusk shut in close about them they rode down into the valley of Shawnee Fork, and discovered signs of a recent camp at the edge of the stream. Here, apparently, judging from the camp-fire ashes, and the trampled grass along the fork, the party must have halted for several hours. By lighting matches Keith and Hristoo discerned where some among them had laid down to sleep, and, through various signs, decided they must have again departed some five or six hours previous, one of their horses limping as it limps. The tired pursuers went into camp at the same spot, but without venturing to light any fire, merely snatching a cold bite, and dropping off to sleep with heads pillowed upon their saddles.

They were upon the trail again with the first dawning of the gray dawn, wading the waters of the fork, and striking forth across the dull level of brown prairie and white alkali toward the Arkansas. They saw nothing all day moving in that wide vista about them, but rode steadily, scarcely exchanging a word, determined, grim, never swerving a yard from the faint trail. The pursued were moving slower, hampered, no doubt, by their lame horse, but were still well in advance. Moreover, the strain of the saddle was already beginning to tell severely on Walto, weakened somewhat by years, and the pursuers were compelled to halt often on his account. The end of the second day found them approaching the broken land bordering the Arkansas valley, and just before nightfall they picked up a lame horse, evidently discarded by the party ahead.

By this time Keith had reached a definite decision as to his course. If the fugitives received a fresh relay of horses down there somewhere, and crossed the Arkansas, he felt positively sure as to their destination. But it would be useless pushing on after them in the present shape of his party—their horses worn out, and Walto reeling giddily in the saddle. If Hawley's outfit crossed the upper ford, toward which they were evidently heading, and struck through the sand hills, then they were making for the refuge of that lone cabin on Salt Fork. Should this prove true, then it was probable the gambler had not even yet discovered the identity of Hristoo, for if he had, he would scarcely venture upon taking her there, knowing that Keith would naturally suspect the spot. But Keith would not be likely to personally take up the trail in search for Christie MacLure. It must have been Hawley then who had left the party and ridden east, and up to that time he had not found out his mistake. Yet if he brought out the fresh animals the chances were that Hristoo's identity would be revealed. Hristoo, who had turned aside to examine the straying horse, came trotting up.

"Belonged to their outfit all right, Cap," he reported, "carries the double cross brand and that shebang is upon the Smoker; saddle galls still bleeding."

Walto was now suffering so acutely by this time that he had to be carried by the others, and he was unable to do anything but lie down and wait for the others to come. Keith gave to the others his conclusions, and listened to what they had to say. Hristoo favored clinging to the trail, even though they must travel slowly, but Fairbairn insisted that Walto must be taken to some town where he could be given necessary care. Keith finally decided the matter.

"None can be more anxious to reach those fellows than I am," he declared, "but I know that country out south, and we'll never get through to the Salt Fork without fresh horses. Besides, as the doctor says, we've got to take care of Walto. If we find things as I expect we'll ride for Carson City, and re-outfit there. What's more, we won't lose much time—it's a shorter ride from there to the cabin than from here."

By morning the General was able to sit his saddle again, and leaving him with Noh to follow slowly, the others spurred forward, discovered an outlet through the bluff into the valley, and crossed the Santa Fe Trail. It was not easy to discover where those in advance had passed this point, but they found evidence of a late camp in a little grove of cottonwoods beside the river. There were traces of two trails leading to the spot, one being that of the same five horses they had been following so long, the other not so easily read, as it had been traversed in both directions, the different hoof marks obliterated each other. Hristoo, crouching about on hands and knees, secured the signs with the eyes of an Indian.

"You kin see the difference yere where the ground is soft, Cap," he said, pointing to some tracks plainer than the others. "This yere horse had a rider, but the rest of 'em was led; that's why they've bungled up their trail so. An' it wa'n't their same bunch that went back east what come from that—see that split hoof! That ain't no split hoof plintin' their other way—but yere is the mark of the critter that puts her foot down so fur outside that we've been a trailin' from Sheridan, an' she's plintin' east, an' being led. Now, let's see what the bunch went from yere with that split hoof."

This was not so easily accomplished owing to the nature of the ground, but at last the searchers stumbled onto tracks close in under the bank, and one of these revealed the split hoof.

"That makes it clear, Hen," exclaimed Keith, decidedly, starting out across the river at the white sand-hills. "They have kept on the edge of the water, making for the ford, which is yonder at the bend. They are out in the sand desert by this time riding for the Salt Fork. Whoever he was, the fellow brought them five horses, and the five old ones were taken east again on the trail. The girl is still with the party, and we'll go into Carson City and re-outfit."

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Again at the Cabin.

They were two weary days reaching Carson City, traveling along the open trail yet meeting with no one, not even a mail coach passing them. Evidently the Indians were so troublesome as to interrupt all traffic with Santa Fe and the more western forts. The slowness of their progress was on account of the General, whose condition became worse in spite of Fairbairn's assiduous attentions. With no medicine the doctor could do but little to relieve the sufferings of the older man, although he declared that his illness was not a serious one, and would yield quickly to proper medical treatment. They constructed a rude travois from limbs of the cottonwood, and securely strapped him thereon, one man leading the horse, while the doctor tramped behind.

Keith, fretting more and more over this necessary delay, and now obsessed with the thought that Hawley must have rejoined his party on the Arkansas and gone south with them, finally broke away from the others and rode ahead, to gather together the necessary horses and supplies in advance of their arrival. The count not drive from his mind the remembrance of the gambler's attempted familiarity with Hristoo, when he had her, as he then supposed, safe in his power once before in that lonely cabin on the Salt Fork. Now, angry with his trickery, there was no guessing to what extremes the desperado might resort. The possibilities of such a situation made the slightest delay in rescue an agony almost unbearable. Reaching Carson City, and perfectly reckless as to his own safety there from arrest, the plainsman lost no time in perfecting arrangements for pushing forward. Horses and provisions were procured, and he very fortunately discovered in town two cowboys belonging to the "Bar X" outfit, their work there accomplished and about ready to return to the ranch on the Canadian, who gladly allied themselves with his party, looking forward to the possibilities of a fight with keen anticipation. Keith was more than ever delighted with adding these to his outfit, when, on the final arrival of the others, the extra man brought from Sheridan announced that he had had enough, and was going to remain there. No efforts made revealed any knowledge of Hawley's presence in Carson City; either he had not been there, or else his friends were very carefully concealing the fact. The utter absence of any trace, however, led Keith to believe that the gambler had gone elsewhere—probably to Fort Larned—for his new outfit, and this belief left him more fully convinced than ever of the fellow's efforts to conceal his trail.

The party escorting Walto reached the town in the evening, and in the following gray dawn the adventurers forded the river, and mounted on fresh horses and fully equipped, headed forth into the sand hills. The little company now consisted of Keith, Fairbairn, who, in spite of his rotundity of form had proven himself hard and fit, Noh, having charge of the single pack-horse, the scout Hristoo, and the two cowboys of the "Bar X," rough, wiry fellows, accustomed to exposure and peril. It was emphatically a fighting outfit, and to be trusted in emergency.

They followed the cattle trail south toward the Salt Fork, as this course would afford them a camp at the only water-hole in all that wide desert lying between. With this certainty of water, they ventured to press their animals to swifter pace, although the sand made traveling heavy, and the trail itself was scarcely discernible. It was a hard, wearisome ride, hour after hour through the same dull, dreary landscape of desolation, the hot, remorseless sun beating down upon them, reflecting up into their blistered faces from the hot surfaces of sand. There was scarcely a breath of air, and the bodies of men and horses were bathed in perspiration. Not a cloud hung in the blue sky; no wing of a bird broke the monotony of distance, no living animal crept across the blazing surface of the desert. Occasionally a distant mirage attracted the eye, making the dead reality even more horrible by its semblance to water, yet never tempting them to stray aside. After the first mile conversation ceased, the men riding grimly, silently forward, intent only on covering all the distance possible. Late that night they camped at the water-hole, sleeping as best they could, scourged by the chill wind which swept over them and lashed grit into exposed faces. With the first gray of dawn they swung stiffened forms into the saddles and rode on, straight as the crow flies, for the Salt Fork. They attained that stream at sundown, gray with sand dust, their faces streaked from perspiration, feeling as though the sun rays had burned their brains, with horses fairly reeling under them. According to Keith's calculation this cattle-ford must be fully ten miles below where the cabin sought was situated; two hours' rest, with water and food, would put both horses and men again in condition, and the traveling was easier along the bank of the Fork. With this in mind, cinches were loosened, the animals turned out to graze, and the men, snatching a hasty bite, dug themselves wearily on the ground.

All but Fairbairn were asleep when Keith aroused them once more, a little before nine, unable in his impatience to brook longer delay. Within ten minutes horses were saddled, weapons looked to carefully, and the little party began their advance through the darkness, moving cautiously over the uneven ground, assisted greatly by the bright desert stars gleaming down upon them from the cloudless sky overhead. The darkness proved somewhat less than had been anticipated, and Keith's watch was not yet at clove, when his eyes revealed the fact that they had reached the near vicinity of the lonely island on which the cabin stood. Reining in his horse sharply, he swung to the ground, the others instantly following his example, realizing they had reached the end of the route. Hands instinctively loosened revolvers in readiness for action, the younger of the "Bar X" men whistling softly in an effort to appear unconcerned. Keith, with a gesture, gathered them more closely about him.

"If Hawley is here himself," he said quietly, watching their faces in the starlight, "he will certainly have a guard set, and there may be one anyhow. We can't afford to take chances, for there will be five men, at least, on the island, and possibly several more. If they are looking for trouble they will naturally expect it to come from the north—consequently we'll make our attack from the opposite direction, and creep in on them under the shadow of the corral. The first thing I want to do is to locate Miss Walto so she will be in no danger of getting hurt in the melee. You boys hold your fire until I let loose or give the word. Now, Doctor, I want you and Noh to creep up this bank until you are directly opposite the cabin—he'll know the spot—and lie there out of sight until we begin the shooting. Then both sail in as fast as you can. I'll take Hristoo and you two "Bar X" men along with me, and when we turn loose with our shooting irons you can all reckon the fight is on. Any of you got questions to ask?"

No one said anything, the silence content by the desert wind howling mournfully in the branches of nearby cottonwood.

"All right then, boys, don't get excited and go off half cocked; be easy on your trigger fingers. Come along, you fellows who are travelling with me."

Duty to the Children.
Children are travelers newly arrived in a strange country; we should therefore make conscience not to mislead them.—Locke.

Folks Past Fifty Must Use 'Cascarets'

What Glasses are to Weak Eyes, Cascarets are to Weak Bowels. Old People Need Them and the Need is Only Natural.

You old people—Cascarets are particularly for you. You who don't exercise as much as you need to. You who like the easy chair. You whose steps are slow, and whose muscles are less elastic. You must realize that your bowels have also become less active.

Don't regard Cascarets as a physic. They stimulate the bowels just as some foods will; just as exercise would, if you took enough of it. They are not harsh, like salts and cathartics. The help which they give to weak bowels is just as natural and gentle as the spur of youth.

When eyes grow dim you help them. Do the same with the bowels. There is nothing more important. Constipated bowels mean the decaying food is clogged there. And the ducts of the bowels suck its poisons into the blood. You can't feel well until this is corrected. But do it gently—regularly with a bowl of Cascarets. Don't let the weak bowels—don't drive them. Just try a ten cent box of Cascarets.

New Zealand's Timber Supply.
On a steady consumption of 400,000,000 feet a year it is estimated that New Zealand's timber supply will give out in fifty years.

STOMACH VS. INTESTINAL DIGESTION.

Some foods digest principally in the stomach, others principally in the intestine, and the two classes of foods should be mixed as little as possible. Beans and rice, for instance, form a bad combination. Those animals that eat the former class of food (flesh) have the stomach much more developed than those, like the rabbit, that live principally on vegetables, which digest in the intestine. In the dog the stomach is much the more important organ, in the rabbit the intestine is the chief organ of digestion. The sympathetic relation between the stomach and the brain is intimate, so that stomach foods should not, as a rule, be eaten in the morning before the severe mental work of the day, nor before retiring, to disturb the proteol meal, followed by an hour's rest. Oil facilitates passage from the stomach.

Warning To Railroad Men.
E. S. Bacon, 11 East St., Bath, Me., sends out this warning to railroaders: "A conductor on the railroad, my work caused a chronic inflammation of the kidneys, and I was miserable and all played out. A friend advised Foley Kidney Pills and from the day I commenced taking them, I began to regain my strength. The inflammation cleared and I am far better than I have been for twenty years. The weakness and dizzy spells are a thing of the past and I highly recommend Foley Kidney Pills." Badger Drug Co.

How to Gain Flesh

A simple but sure way to increase the weight, it is asserted by several well known physicians, is to take regularly (two or three times after each meal) these little tablets have the distinguished merit of increasing the red and white blood corpuscles, aiding digestion and promoting assimilation and absorption of the elements in the food which go to make blood and solid tissues. They are obtainable in sealed packages from physicians and well stocked apothecary shops.

Amateur Aeroplanes.

Very small boys of the East side have solved unconsciously the principles of the box kite and the aeroplane. They take an ordinary paper bag, cut the end out of it so that it remains merely a cylinder of paper, tie a short bit of string to the end where the bottom used to be for a tail, then attach the end of a spool of thread to the opposite end of the bag. The improvised kite flies easily and steadily as high as the roofs of the tallest tenements.—New York Sun.

Going Back.

"This is my second childhood," chuckled the tough hen, as she saw the preparations being made to execute her and serve her up as spring chicken.

Spruce Becoming Scarce.

The demand for paper has made the supply problem one that has grown and is growing rapidly. There has never been an era like the present for cheap printed matter. This is the day of the newspaper; the newspaper uses wood-pulp paper. The drain upon the spruce forests is so great that there may be a famine of that wood. Therefore an effort is being made to get another wood to replace it—a hard thing to do, since spruce is admittedly superior to others.
